SWIMSUIT 2007 | THE MUSIC ISSUE

WINTER 2007

INTRODUCING THE SOLSTICE GXP

On the surface it's another example of beautiful body painting. But you'll find the true essence of X under the skin. Like the harnessed raw power of rear-wheel drive and a turbocharged 260hp engine that delivers 260lb-ft of torque and a sub-5.5-second 0-60. Planting it on 18's ensures it drips with menace. GXP starts at $27,115.*

Introducing the first in-ear headphones from Bose.

FINALLY, we solved the three problems that prevented us from making in-ear headphones that we could present with pride:

1. The sound quality of in-ear headphones was below our standards.
2. The comfort left much to be desired.
3. The stability in the ear was not acceptable.

Because we were the first to introduce active noise canceling headphones and high-quality passive TriPort® headphones, you might have expected us to have introduced in-ear headphones long ago. But it took our research team until now to develop the in-ear technology to our standards.

Instead of telling you HOW we did it, we would like you to tell us your reaction to WHAT we did. We would like all of our engineers on the team to have the opportunity to read your comments.* Although we have done extensive testing with many people during development, there is no greater motivating factor for our engineers than the enthusiasm of owners.

Experience new Bose® in-ear headphones risk free for 30 days.

To purchase, call:

BEYONCÉ KNOWLES Last spring, when SI chose music as its theme for the 2007 Swimsuit Issue, senior editor Diane Smith immediately set her sights on the nine-time Grammy winner. Not only was Beyoncé, 25, in the midst of an extraordinary 2006, in which she landed a lead role in Dreamgirls and her album B'Day hit the top of the charts, but she had also launched a swimsuit line (above) under her House of Deréon clothing label. Posing for SI was a natural fit, says Beyoncé, who adds, "I wanted something timeless to show my kids one day, so I can say, 'See, Mama was beautiful.' "

Aerosmith Since 1970 these rockers have laid down 14 studio albums, won four Grammys and hung out with their share of gorgeous ladies. "At the end of the day," says lead singer Steven Tyler (center), whose jam session with model Bar Refaeli fronts the musicians and models photo gallery (page 106), "it really is all about the girl."

Kanye West It didn't take much to get the rapper, who will release his third album, Graduation, in the fall, to pose with Anne V (page 108). Aside from the obvious, the two were already friends. Add to that West's fashion sense (his Pastelle line debuts later this year), and everything else was, as Anne V says, "like magic."

Gnarls Barkley Asked during her shoot whose music she'd most like to hear, Beyoncé named the breakout duo of Danger Mouse (far left) and Cee-Lo, who'd get their own modeling turn with Jessica White seven weeks later (page 110). On Feb. 11 Beyoncé got to hear the pair up close as she and the two rappers shared the stage at the Grammys.

Kenny Chesney No Shoes, No Shirt, No Problem could easily have been the anthem for Chesney's shoot with Marisa Miller (page 112). The 2006 Country Music Awards Entertainer of the Year was completely chill in the company of Miller, who says, "Kenny was way-y-y-y cool, so down to earth."

Panic! At the Disco Panic! At the photo shoot too. These Las Vegas–born alt rockers admitted to pregame jitters before their session with Julie Henderson (page 114). Ultimately they were able to tap the confidence that comes with success, including their hit album A Fever You Can't Swat Out and five MTV Video Music Award nominations in '06.

The Pop Culture Grid

Where do SI's models fall on the big questions of the day? Find out at SI.com/swimpop. Here's a teaser

How do models fit in?	First album you purchased	First concert you attended	Rock star you'd like to meet	Pro athlete you'd like to meet	Gnarls Barkley is . . .	Britney Spears is . . .	K-Fed is . . .	What you dreamed of growing up to be at age 10
MARISA MILLER	Unplugged, Nirvana	Boyz II Men. I was in the seventh grade	Jimi Hendrix. He was so original and had this insane style	Joe Calzaghe. He's a boxer from the U.K. I'm really into boxing	I don't know a lot about him	In need of some privacy	Dreaming that he'll be the next Eminem	A sports broadcaster
BAR REFAELI	Jagged Little Pill, Alanis Morissette	Michael Jackson, about 10 years ago. My brother took me	Alanis Morissette. She really feels what she's singing	Lance Armstrong. So inspiring	A great rapper	A phenomenon. Everyone is intrigued by what she does	Who cares?	A professional skydiver. I was kind of a tomboy
JESSICA WHITE	I'm Your Baby Tonight, Whitney Houston	Janet Jackson. I went with an old friend about five years ago	Whitney Houston. I've always loved her, she has this aura	Lisa Leslie. She's a very empowering woman	A great band with the No. 1 downloaded song	A talented young lady	Britney's ex-husband	A ballet dancer
BROOKLYN DECKER	Tragic Kingdom, No Doubt	Spice Girls. I was 10; I sported blonde pigtails like Baby Spice	Dave Matthews. I just worship him	Brett Favre. I want to see him play another year	Innovative and has a way to appeal to your grandmother	Preparing for a comeback	Everything I personally don't want in a man	The first female president but an actress on the side
SELITA EBANKS	Very Necessary, Salt-N-Pepa	Usher. I actually just went to my first concert	Chaka Khan. I just love all her music and her energy	Muhammad Ali. He demanded attention and respect	Hot and gifted	A little confused	A hustler	A lawyer
ALINE NAKASHIMA	Phrenology, The Roots	Moby, a couple of years ago in São Paulo	Jack Johnson. I really like that chill-out type of music	Ronaldinho. I love soccer, and he's the best in the world	I'm not sure	Loved by the paparazzi	Who cares?	A dance teacher
TORI PRAVER	The Sign, Ace of Base	The Beach Boys. My mom took me when I was real little	Bob Marley. He was such an artist	I've met him: BJ Penn. An ultimate fighter and my boyfriend	Two people, not one	Talked about way too much	That guy who says something crude when you walk by	A whale trainer at Sea World
ANA PAULA ARAUJO	Nevermind, Nirvana	U2. I saw them in São Paulo in 1997 and am still a big fan	Elvis Presley. Everything about him was amazing	Ali. He's a very courageous man	I'm not sure	A little lost right now	The opposite of Britney in terms of popularity and success	A judge

Exclusive Beyoncé Video

The all-access ticket includes two new tracks

It would have required Rambo-like stealth to breach the set of the Miami Beach cover shoot with Beyoncé during the final week of November: SI had Dade County police, Beyoncé's security chief, Terrell, and a few more men in black keeping things locked down. (Believe us, you don't want to cross Terrell.) Lucky for you, SI also sent a video crew to record—and share—everything that happened inside the yellow tape. Even better, the soundtrack for the bonus footage includes two Beyoncé tracks from her upcoming B'Day rerelease. So log on to SI.com/beyonce to see firsthand what Swimsuit editor Diane Smith called "a circus—bigger than anything I've ever seen at a shoot before."

And Even More Video

Behind-the-scenes with the entire crew of models

Every model. Every shoot. That's what SI.com promises in behind-the-scenes coverage. In addition to Beyoncé footage, there are extra helpings of Anne, Brooklyn, Selita (right) and the rest of the 2007 models (in panoramic video) at SI.com/swimvideo. You can see model diaries, guest cameos (a certain football coach dropped by at USC) and even Swimsuit bloopers, such as Marisa Miller's tussle with an uncooperative parrot.

IN 1949, KIHACHIRO ONITSUKA DIDN'T JUST WANT TO CREATE A SHOE COMPANY, HE WANTED TO SPREAD A PHILOSOPHY. HE BELIEVED IN THE POWERFUL ALLIANCE OF BODY AND SOUL, AND THE BEST WAY TO CULTIVATE THAT HARMONY WAS THROUGH SPORT. IN 1977, HIS SMALL SHOE COMPANY HAD EXPANDED TO BECOME ASICS, AN ACRONYM DERIVED FROM THE LATIN PHRASE, ANIMA SANA IN CORPORE SANO – A SOUND MIND IN A SOUND BODY. A Beautiful Ring to It

Your ringtones can have more than just a pretty face. Load up with new video

Take your favorite swimsuit model anywhere by downloading wallpaper and, for the first time, video to your mobile phone (available on Amp'd, Cingular, Sprint and V Cast from Verizon Wireless). Choose stills or animated wallpaper of the models who appear in the 2007 Swimsuit Issue plus favorites from past years, while videos feature individual models from each shoot in this issue. There's even a video ringtone download (Sprint only) that will post images of Marisa, Bar (right) and other sun-rinsed beauties set to music with each call to your cell. (Remember to answer the phone, please, and not simply stare at it.) "It's swimsuit models on demand, when you want them and how you want them," says Stacey Vollman, SI's executive director of business development. Trust us, your phone will look very good in a bikini. >> For more details, go to SImobile2007.com.

The Ballad of The World's Luckiest Guitar

A jet-setting, 20-model odyssey ends on a high note: at auction to benefit musicians from New Orleans

BY RICHARD DEITSCH

If this guitar could sing, oh, the stories it could tell. Over the past six months it has snuggled with Marisa Miller under bamboo trees in Jamaica, sunbathed with Fernanda Tavares on the white, sandy beaches of Itacaré, Brazil, and shared a warm outdoor bath (in a horse trough, no less) under a sun-baked Tucson sky with Yesica Toscanini.

Swimsuit models are inspirational in many ways. In Jimmy Buffett's case, they moved him to a write a song and make a music video

"This guitar," says SI creative director Steve Hoffman, "has been intimate with 20 of the most beautiful girls in the world."

"This guitar," says Swimsuit associate editor Jennifer Kaplan, "should have its own frequent flier number."

"This guitar," says singer-songwriter Jimmy Buffett, the instrument's original owner, "looks like it had a pretty good time. I know I wish I could have been caressed by that many beautiful women."

So how did this 000-JBS Jimmy Buffett–Shellback signature edition guitar (number 5 of 168 created by the famed C.F. Martin & Company) get so lucky? Back in August, Hoffman was driving to a golf outing in New Jersey when he was struck by an idea. "I was lamenting the fact that here we were, doing a music-themed Swimsuit Issue, and we hadn't mentioned New Orleans," Hoffman says. "It occurred to me that maybe we could do something to raise some money for the musicians there."

That's where the mayor of Margaritaville came in. Buffett agreed to donate one of his guitars to the cause, and he autographed it—Play well, fins to the left, fins to the right, Jimmy Buffett—before it was passed on to 20 of the models in this issue, each of whom signed the guitar during her photo shoot. (Alas, not one of them left her cellphone number on it.)

The guitar will be auctioned on eBay, with bidding set to close on Feb. 23. The proceeds will go to the New Orleans Musicians' Clinic and the Habitat for Humanity Musicians' Village, two organizations close to Buffett's heart. "I was born in a little town called Pascagoula [Miss.], which was devastated by Katrina," says Buffett, who has worked to focus attention on the area. "I believe New Orleans is the cultural soul of America and needs to be saved."

"I'm just doing my part to add a little escapism to an otherwise crazy world," says Jimmy Buffett, smiling like a man who just tasted the perfect margarita. He's discussing the enviable process of shooting a music video with SI Swimsuit model Brooklyn Decker. Last month a small crew that included Buffett, Decker, director Stan Kellam and one well-traveled Jimmy Buffet–Shellback guitar flew to St. Barts on Buffett's private plane to tape Getting the Picture. In the video Buffett bumps into Decker on the beach, they pose for a photo and she playfully swipes his guitar. The singer then makes a sun-baked trek across the globe in search of his musical Excalibur. The best news? There's plenty of footage of Brooklyn and her fellow models. "The message of the video is that it's February, you're probably freezing your butt off somewhere, and here Jimmy Buffett is living the dream, hanging out with all these beautiful girls," Buffett says. —R.D.

This isn't the first collaboration between Buffett and SI. Two years ago he wrote a 4,700-word article in the Swimsuit Issue about battling tarpon on a windswept coral reef in the Virgin Islands. Along with his whimsical fishing tale, the issue included a CD that featured a single Buffett wrote for the issue, License to Chill, and a video of him singing the tune. Because of the success of that venture and his longtime friendship with SI Group editor Terry McDonell (the two have known each other since the late 1970s), Buffett was happy to join forces with SI again. In this issue you'll find another CD with a catchy new Buffett song, Getting the Picture, plus an accompanying video starring (and inspired by) some of the world's most beautiful women, fiddling with one very lucky instrument.

Since being donated to SI, the mahogany guitar has traveled to 14 cities in four countries on two continents. It has docked in posh surroundings (Four Seasons Maui, The Caves in Negril, Jamaica) and tight but memorable quarters (Oluchi Onweagba strummed the guitar in the same tiny room at Sun Studio in Memphis where Elvis Presley recorded his first album in 1954).

The guitar's odyssey began in late August with a circuitous journey from Buffett's home in Sag Harbor, N.Y., to the Brazilian resort town of Itacaré, with one precarious layover in São Paulo. There it was nearly confiscated by customs officers before a quick-thinking Kaplan explained to them that it was part of an SI Swimsuit shoot. Upon hearing that story, Buffett smiled. "I have learned over the years that a guitar is a passport," he said. "It really allows you to go beyond borders."

At the Swimsuit shoots, the photographers handed the guitar to the models with few instructions. "It was like: Here's the guitar, and let's see what happens," says Marisa. "I had never posed with a guitar before, and while I didn't want it to look like I was making out with it, I did want it to be sexy. So I snuggled with it and gave it a hug. I wanted it to feel wanted."

It certainly was. Ten girls kissed the guitar for the cameras (by one staffer's estimation) and all decorated it in their own style. Brazilian model Raica Oliveira signed Paz y Amor (Peace and Love, in Portuguese) along with her name. Israeli model Bar Refaeli wrote Peace, Love and Lots and Lots of Music in Hebrew, while Anne V penned a giant heart and wrote With Love in Russian. Anne says regretfully that as a kid in Nizhni Novgorod she quit guitar lessons after just a week. "I realized I don't have enough patience," she says. "People who conquer this, though, can make such beautiful music."

And for those musicians who were so terribly affected by Katrina, SI is proud to have a chance to assist them. Says Swimsuit editor Diane Smith, "A lot of the girls were touched that their beauty could do something to help others." □

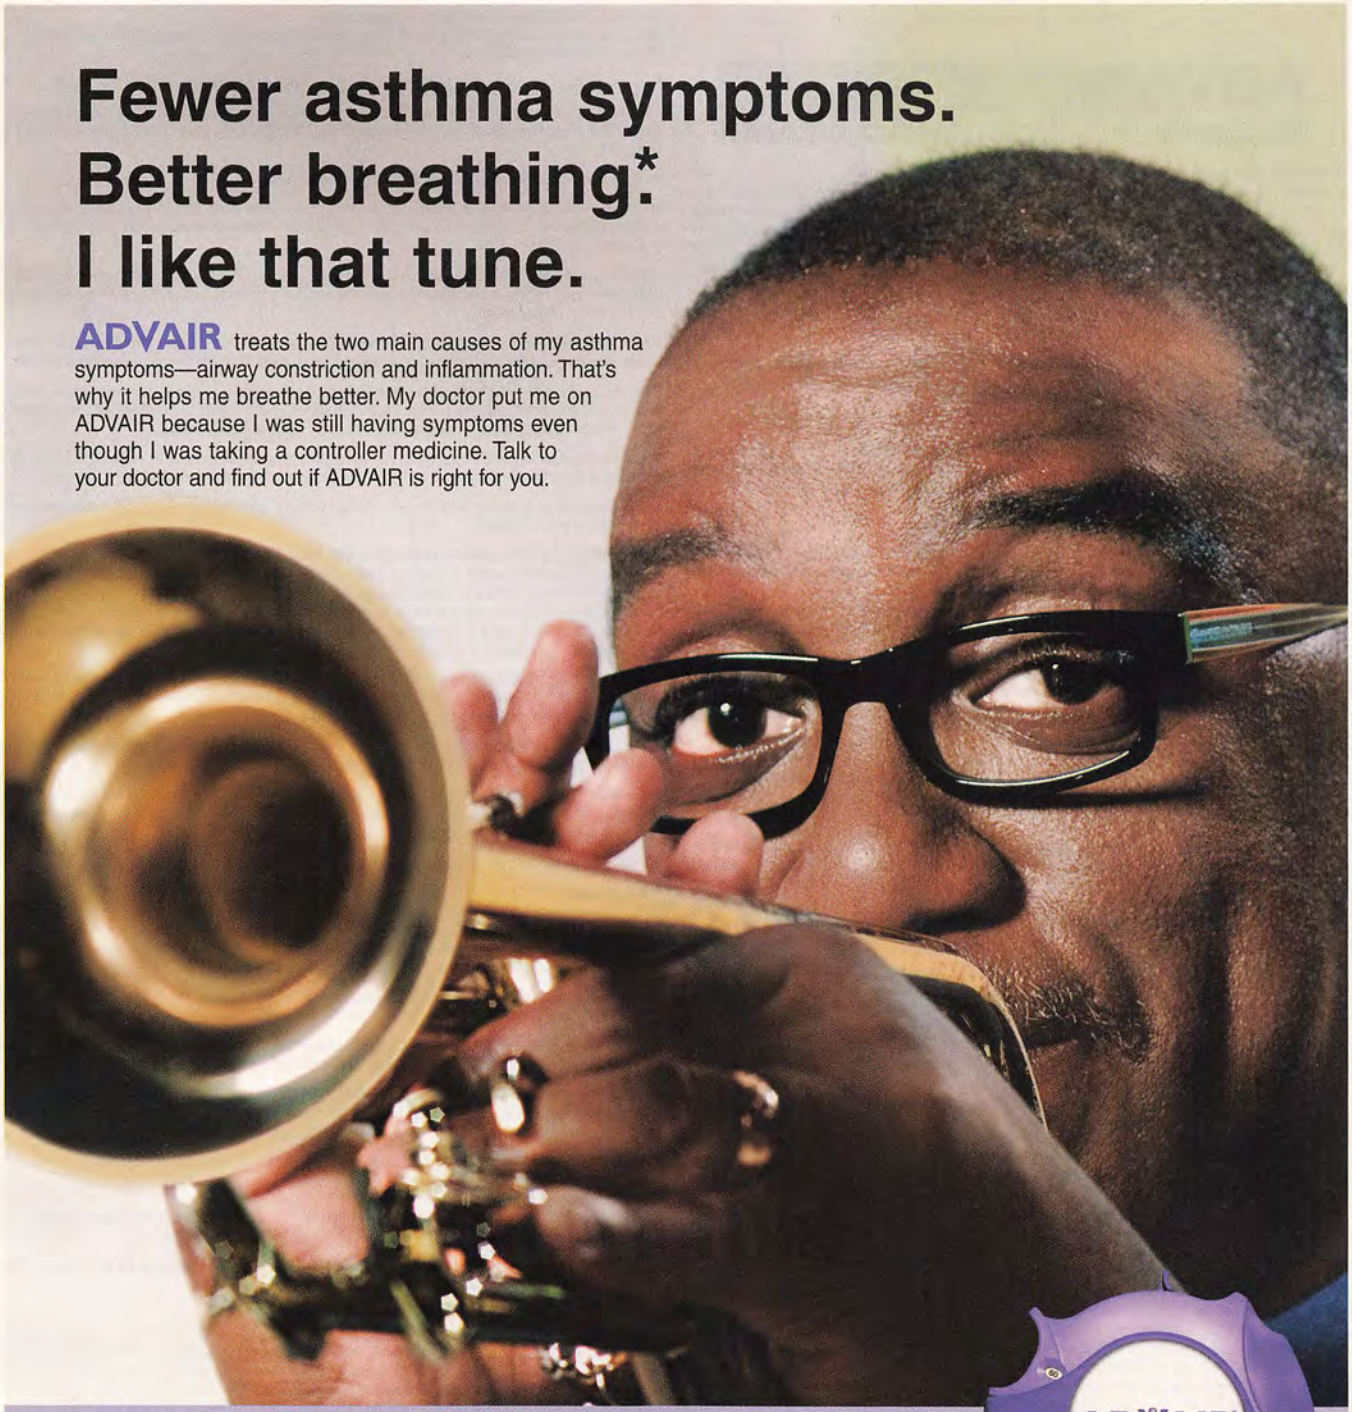
Fewer asthma symptoms. Better breathing.* I like that tune.

ADVAIR treats the two main causes of my asthma symptoms—airway constriction and inflammation. That's why it helps me breathe better. My doctor put me on ADVAIR because I was still having symptoms even though I was taking a controller medicine. Talk to your doctor and find out if ADVAIR is right for you.



Better Symptom Control. Better Breathing.

For more information and savings offers, visit ADVAIR.com or call 800-646-6644.

ADVAIR DISKUS 100/50
(fluticasone propionate 100 mcg and salmeterol 50 mcg inhalation powder)

Partnership for Prescription Assistance

If you don't have prescription coverage, visit pparx.org, or call 1-888-4PPA-NOW (1-888-477-2669)

GlaxoSmithKline

Important information about ADVAIR. Prescription ADVAIR won't replace fast-acting inhalers for sudden symptoms and should not be taken more than twice a day. ADVAIR contains salmeterol. In patients with asthma, medicines like salmeterol may increase the chance of asthma-related death. So ADVAIR is not for people whose asthma is well controlled on another controller medicine. Talk to your doctor about the risks and benefits of treating your asthma with ADVAIR. If you are taking ADVAIR, see your doctor if your asthma does not improve. Tell your doctor if you have a heart condition or high blood pressure. Some people may experience increased blood pressure, heart rate, or changes in heart rhythm. ADVAIR is for patients 4 years and older. For patients 4 to 11 years old, ADVAIR 100/50 is for those who have asthma symptoms while on an inhaled corticosteroid.

*People ages 12 years and older taking ADVAIR 100/50 experienced improved lung function and asthma symptom scores, and a reduction in fast-acting inhaler use, compared with people taking either fluticasone propionate 100 mcg or salmeterol 50 mcg (inhalation powders) alone.

Please see important information about ADVAIR on the next page.

Results may vary.

ADVAIR DISKUS® 100/50, 250/50, 500/50

(fluticasone propionate 100, 250, 500 mcg and salmeterol 50 mcg inhalation powder)

What is the most important information I should know about ADVAIR DISKUS?

In patients with asthma, long-acting beta$_2$-agonist medicines such as salmeterol (one of the medications in ADVAIR®) may increase the chance of death from asthma problems. In a large asthma study, more patients who used salmeterol died from asthma problems compared with patients who did not use salmeterol. So ADVAIR is not for patients whose asthma is well controlled on another asthma controller medicine such as low- to medium-dose inhaled corticosteroids or only need a fast-acting inhaler once in a while. Talk with your doctor about this risk and the benefits of treating your asthma with ADVAIR.

ADVAIR should not be used to treat a severe attack of asthma or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) requiring emergency medical treatment.

ADVAIR should not be used to relieve sudden symptoms or sudden breathing problems. Always have a fast-acting inhaler with you to treat sudden breathing difficulty. If you do not have a fast-acting inhaler, contact your doctor to have one prescribed for you.

What is ADVAIR DISKUS?

There are two medicines in ADVAIR: Fluticasone propionate, an inhaled anti-inflammatory belonging to a group of medicines commonly referred to as corticosteroids; and salmeterol, a long-acting, inhaled bronchodilator belonging to a group of medicines commonly referred to as beta$_2$-agonists. There are 3 strengths of ADVAIR: 100/50, 250/50, 500/50.

For Asthma

- ADVAIR is approved for the maintenance treatment of asthma in patients 4 years of age and older. ADVAIR should only be used if your doctor decides that another asthma controller medicine alone does not control your asthma or that you need 2 asthma controller medications.
- The strength of ADVAIR approved for patients ages 4 to 11 years who experience symptoms on an inhaled corticosteroid is ADVAIR DISKUS 100/50. All 3 strengths are approved for patients with asthma ages 12 years and older.

For COPD associated with chronic bronchitis

ADVAIR 250/50 is the only approved dose for the maintenance treatment of airflow obstruction in patients with COPD associated with chronic bronchitis. The benefit of using ADVAIR for longer than 6 months has not been evaluated. The way anti-inflammatories work in the treatment of COPD is not well defined.

Who should not take ADVAIR DISKUS?

You should not start ADVAIR if your asthma is becoming significantly or rapidly worse, which can be life threatening. Serious respiratory events, including death, have been reported in patients who started taking salmeterol in this situation, although it is not possible to tell whether salmeterol contributed to these events. This may also occur in patients with less severe asthma.

You should not take ADVAIR if you have had an allergic reaction to it or any of its components (salmeterol, fluticasone propionate, or lactose). Tell your doctor if you are allergic to ADVAIR, any other medications, or food products. If you experience an allergic reaction after taking ADVAIR, stop using ADVAIR immediately and contact your doctor. Allergic reactions are when you experience one or more of the following: choking; breathing problems; swelling of the face, mouth and/or tongue; rash; hives; itching; or welts on the skin.

Tell your doctor about the following:

- If you are using your fast-acting inhaler more often or using more doses than you normally do (e.g., 4 or more inhalations of your fast-acting inhaler for 2 or more days in a row or a whole canister of your fast-acting inhaler in 8 weeks' time), it could be a sign that your asthma is getting worse. If this occurs, tell your doctor immediately.
- If you have been using your fast-acting inhaler regularly (e.g., four times a day). Your doctor may tell you to stop the regular use of these medications.
- If your peak flow meter results decrease. Your doctor will tell you the numbers that are right for you.
- If you have asthma and your symptoms do not improve after using ADVAIR regularly for 1 week.
- If you have been on an oral steroid, like prednisone, and are now using ADVAIR. You should be very careful as you may be less able to heal after surgery, infection, or serious injury. It takes a number of months for the body to recover its ability to make its own steroid hormones after use of oral steroids. Switching from an oral steroid may also unmask a condition previously suppressed by the oral steroid such as allergies, conjunctivitis, eczema, arthritis, and eosinophilic conditions. Symptoms of an eosinophilic condition can include rash, worsening breathing problems, heart complications, and/or feeling of "pins and needles" or numbness in the arms and legs. Talk to your doctor immediately if you experience any of these symptoms.
- Sometimes patients experience unexpected bronchospasm right after taking ADVAIR. This condition can be life threatening and if it occurs, you should immediately stop using ADVAIR and seek immediate medical attention.
- If you have any type of heart disease such as coronary artery disease, irregular heart beat or high blood pressure, ADVAIR should be used with caution. Be sure to talk with your doctor about your condition because salmeterol, one of the components of ADVAIR, may affect the heart by increasing heart rate and blood pressure. It may cause symptoms such as heart fluttering, chest pain, rapid heart rate, tremor, or nervousness.
- If you have seizures, overactive thyroid gland, liver problems, or are sensitive to certain medications for breathing.
- If your breathing problems get worse over time or if your fast-acting inhaler does not work as well for you while using ADVAIR. If your breathing problems worsen quickly, get emergency medical care.
- If you have been exposed to or currently have chickenpox or measles or if you have an immune system problem. Patients using medications that weaken the immune system are more likely to get infections than healthy individuals. ADVAIR contains a corticosteroid (fluticasone propionate) which may weaken the immune system. Infections like chickenpox and measles, for example, can be very serious or even fatal in susceptible patients using corticosteroids.

How should I take ADVAIR DISKUS?

ADVAIR should be used 1 inhalation, twice a day (morning and evening). ADVAIR should never be taken more than 1 inhalation twice a day. The full benefit of taking ADVAIR may take 1 week or longer.

If you miss a dose of ADVAIR, just skip that dose. Take your next dose at your usual time. Do not take two doses at one time.

Do not stop using ADVAIR unless told to do so by your doctor because your symptoms might get worse.

Do not change or stop any of your medicines used to control or treat your breathing problems. Your doctor will adjust your medicines as needed.

When using ADVAIR, remember:

- Never breathe into or take the DISKUS® apart.
- Always use the DISKUS in a level position.
- After each inhalation, rinse your mouth with water without swallowing.
- Never wash any part of the DISKUS. Always keep it in a dry place.
- Never take an extra dose, even if you feel you did not receive a dose.
- Discard 1 month after removal from the foil overwrap.
- Do not use ADVAIR with a spacer device.

Children should use ADVAIR with an adult's help as instructed by the child's doctor.

Can I take ADVAIR DISKUS with other medications?

Tell your doctor about all the medications you take, including prescription and nonprescription medications, vitamins, and herbal supplements.

If you are taking ADVAIR, you should not take SEREVENT® DISKUS or Foradil® Aerolizer® for any reason.

If you take ritonavir (an HIV medication), tell your doctor. Ritonavir may interact with ADVAIR and could cause serious side effects. The anti-HIV medicines Norvir® Soft Gelatin Capsules, Norvir Oral Solution, and Kaletra® contain ritonavir.

No formal drug interaction studies have been performed with ADVAIR.

In clinical studies, there were no differences in effects on the heart when ADVAIR was taken with varying amounts of albuterol. The effect of using ADVAIR in patients with asthma while taking more than 9 puffs a day of albuterol has not been studied.

ADVAIR should be used with extreme caution during and up to 2 weeks after treatment with monoamine oxidase (MAO) inhibitors or tricyclic antidepressants since these medications can cause ADVAIR to have an even greater effect on the circulatory system.

ADVAIR should be used with caution in people who are taking ketoconazole (an antifungus medication) or other drugs broken down by the body in a similar way. These medications can cause ADVAIR to have greater steroid side effects.

Generally, people with asthma should not take beta-blockers because they counteract the effects of beta$_2$-agonists and may also cause severe bronchospasm. However, in some cases, for instance, following a heart attack, selective beta-blockers may still be used if there is no acceptable alternative.

The ECG changes and/or low blood potassium that may occur with some diuretics may be made worse by ADVAIR, especially at higher-than-recommended doses. Caution should be used when these drugs are used together.

In clinical studies, there was no difference in side effects when ADVAIR was taken with methylxanthines (e.g., theophylline) or with FLONASE®.

What are other important safety considerations with ADVAIR DISKUS?

Osteoporosis: Long-term use of inhaled corticosteroids may result in bone loss (osteoporosis). Patients who are at risk for increased bone loss (tobacco use, advanced age, inactive lifestyle, poor nutrition, family history of osteoporosis, or long-term use of drugs such as corticosteroids) may have a greater risk with ADVAIR. If you have risk factors for bone loss, you should talk to your doctor about ways to reduce your risk and whether you should have your bone density evaluated.

Glaucoma and cataracts: Glaucoma, increased pressure in the eyes, and cataracts have been reported with the use of inhaled steroids, including fluticasone propionate, a medicine contained in ADVAIR. Regular eye examinations should be considered if you are taking ADVAIR.

Lower respiratory tract infection: Lower respiratory tract infections, including pneumonia, have been reported with the use of inhaled corticosteroids, including ADVAIR.

Blood sugar: Salmeterol may affect blood sugar and/or cause low blood potassium in some patients, which could lead to a side effect like an irregular heart rate. Significant changes in blood sugar and blood potassium were seen infrequently in clinical studies with ADVAIR.

Growth: Inhaled steroids may cause a reduction in growth velocity in children and adolescents.

Steroids: Taking steroids can affect your body's ability to make its own steroid hormones, which are needed during infections and times of severe stress to your body, such as an operation. These effects can sometimes be seen with inhaled steroids (but it is more common with oral steroids), especially when taken at higher-than-recommended doses over a long period of time. In some cases, these effects may be severe. Inhaled steroids often help control symptoms with less side effects than oral steroids.

Yeast infections: Patients taking ADVAIR may develop yeast infections of the mouth and/or throat ("thrush") that should be treated by their doctor.

Tuberculosis or other untreated infections: ADVAIR should be used with caution, if at all, in patients with tuberculosis, herpes infections of the eye, or other untreated infections.

What are the other possible side effects of ADVAIR DISKUS?

ADVAIR may produce side effects in some patients. In clinical studies, the most common side effects with ADVAIR included:

- Respiratory infections
- Throat irritation
- Hoarseness
- Sinus infection
- Yeast infection of the mouth
- Bronchitis
- Cough
- Headaches
- Nausea and vomiting
- Diarrhea
- Musculoskeletal pain
- Dizziness
- Fever
- Ear, nose, and throat infections
- Nosebleed

Tell your doctor about any side effect that bothers you or that does not go away. These are not all the side effects with ADVAIR. Ask your doctor or pharmacist for more information.

What if I am pregnant, planning to become pregnant, or nursing?

Talk to your doctor about the benefits and risks of using ADVAIR during pregnancy, labor, or if you are nursing. There have been no studies of ADVAIR used during pregnancy, labor, or in nursing women. Salmeterol is known to interfere with labor contractions. It is not known whether ADVAIR is excreted in breast milk, but other corticosteroids have been detected in human breast milk. Fluticasone propionate, like other corticosteroids, has been associated with birth defects in animals (e.g., cleft palate and fetal death). Salmeterol showed no effect on fertility in rats at 180 times the maximum recommended daily dose.

What other important tests were conducted with ADVAIR?

There is no evidence of enhanced toxicity with ADVAIR compared with the components administered separately. In animal studies with doses much higher than those used in humans, salmeterol was associated with uterine tumors. Your healthcare professional can tell you more about how drugs are tested on animals and what the results of these tests may mean to your safety.

Peabody Memphis

This Blues City institution provided the royal treatment, but a VIP tour of Graceland was fit for a king

ROOMS: 464 ROOMS (15 SUITES)
PRICES: $245-$2,200
LOCAL KNOWLEDGE: CHAT UP BERNARD LANSKY, ELVIS'S PERSONAL TAILOR, WHO OWNS FIVE HOTEL SHOPS
CONTACT: PEABODYMEMPHIS.COM

A nonstop parade of attractions included (clockwise from top) the daily duck walk in the Peabody, hot-buttered soul man Hayes (in gold, with Chin) and Graceland, where Oluchi went along for the ride.

The highlight of the SI swimsuit crew's grand tour of Memphis was unprecedented access behind the ropes at Graceland, where we were allowed to throw off our shoes and dig our feet deep into the shag carpeting of Elvis's Jungle Room. Everyone took snapshots of each other against the backdrop of the animal-skin furniture and came away convinced that the floating white dots in our images were due not to cheap flashes but rather the presence of the ghost of the King.

We found treasure in less obvious Memphis-area locales, too, such as the shoot on the old railroad bridge that traverses the Mississippi. First-year model Tori Praver was flanked by crunk pioneers Juicy J and D.J. Paul of Three 6 Mafia, and photographer Walter Chin said, "Make it real sexy." His instruction was meant for Tori, but Juicy J took it as a cue to flash his full grill. Craig Brewer, a Memphis resident and director of Hustle & Flow, which featured the Academy Award–winning Three 6 Mafia song, It's Hard Out Here for a Pimp, grinned as he watched. "This is a perfect moment," Brewer said. "That girl, these guys, this bridge." Brewer liked having the rusty bridge in the shot, he explained, because it reveals that Memphis is more than Graceland and the usual tourist-brochure destinations.

From a music standpoint the city is an aural mosaic of blues, rock, country, crunk, hip-hop and '70s Memphis icon Isaac Hayes (also a participant in the shoot) branded "hot-buttered soul." SI's crew had set up at the Peabody Memphis, which is within walking distance of B.B. King's and other Beale Street music clubs, making it the perfect home base when you're getting to know what Memphis is all about.

What the Peabody's all about is Southern comfort: big rooms, plush beds, attentive service and an in-house tourist attraction. Every morning at 11, trained ducks file into an elevator to make the trip from the rooftop to the lobby fountain before returning to the roof (via elevator) at 5 p.m. —Bill Syken

BUSINESS

Productivity Down 30% Since Internet Was Introduced

By LARRY BUTTS

Corporate bosses appear to be fighting a losing battle on workplace time-wasting. "Cyber-loafing has become the #1 enemy of productivity. Beating out time spent on personal phone calls, fantasy baseball and talking about sports combined," reports Debbie Blankenship, a Human Resources Consultant based in New York City.

While we'll admit 30% is a guesstimate, everyone knows businesses are losing thousands of hours of productivity every quarter, as employees surf the internet, then email and IM messages and video links. "It appears that

The Caves

Go west, young mon, to Jamaica's left coast to lap up some Jimmy Cliff and a stunning cliffside retreat

ROOMS: 11 COTTAGES PRICE: $515-$950
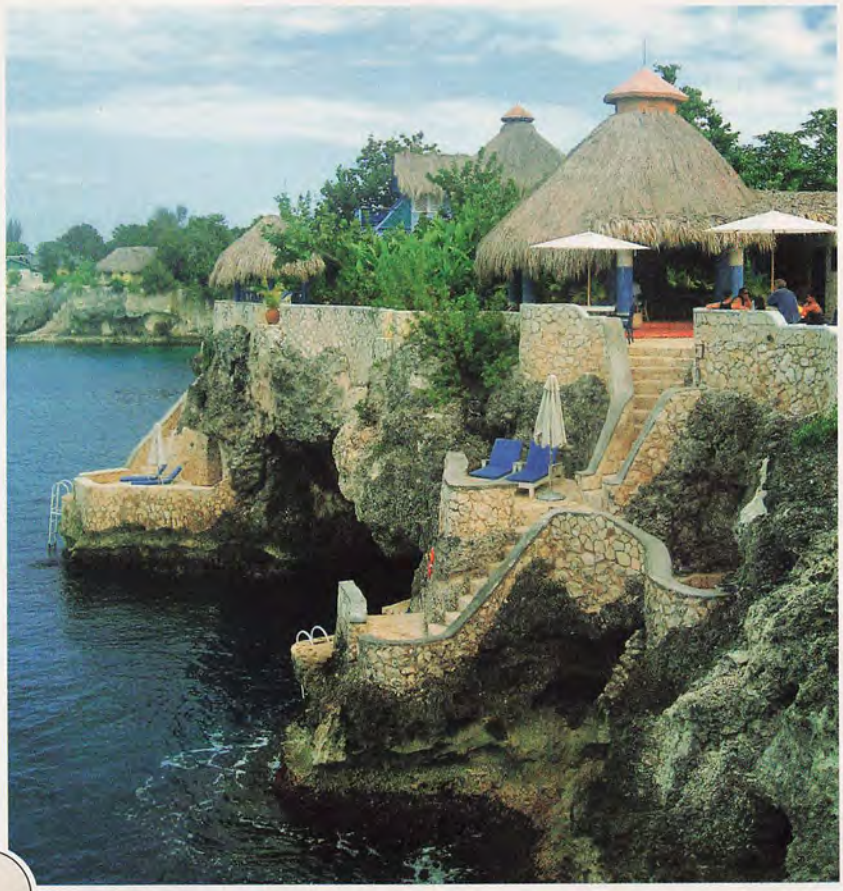
LOCAL KNOWLEDGE: DIVE FROM ONE OF THE CLIFFS ON HIGH AND DINE IN ONE OF THE CAVES DOWN LOW
CONTACT: ISLANDOUTPOST.COM



The Caves mixes (clockwise from bottom left) breathtaking views with flourishes that are man-made (four high-dive platforms built on the honeycomb rock) and, in the case of this photo shoot, woman-made (Anne V).

To enjoy the music rooted in Jamaica's history merely head for the water. Whether you are strolling or sunbathing on Negril's Seven Mile Beach or swimming just offshore, music is in the air. During a shoot of models Selita Ebanks and Bar Refaeli on the stretch of beach outside Cosmo's Seafood Restaurant, three different bands wandered past playing such popular folk genres as mento, nyahbinghi and kumina.

Although reggae and dancehall have carried the contemporary sounds of the island worldwide, Jamaicans still delight in these other musical traditions. "When the ancestors came here, these are the songs they played," says Rastafari, the lead singer of the Jamaican folk band Hot Steppa Cultural Group, a local favorite.

The spectacular view also remains much as it was in the early 1500s when the first African slaves were brought to the island by Spanish and Portuguese settlers. The town of Negril is located on the west coast of Jamaica, where the seemingly endless sunsets are a guaranteed amenity at any of the area resorts, including The Caves. This unique retreat—11 cottages, each "planted" in a garden—is perched above a string of grottoes and honeycomb rocks protruding from the sea, the outcroppings covered by marine life. Guests are free to swim in the aqua waters and explore the rocks and caves below; one of the grottoes even serves as an intimate private dining area.

A winding coral path leads to each bungalow, all shaded by lush sea-grape trees and most with ocean-front views. "My father loves privacy and builds with that in mind," says Joanna Saulter, whose parents, Bertram and the late Greer-Ann, designed the resort. Bertram remains a co-owner of the property with Chris Blackwell, the founder of Island Records and the most famous of Bob Marley's producers. "He never cuts down a tree unless he has to. Whatever the land form is, that is what he builds around."

Nature did the hard work, so all that is left for guests to do is sit back and enjoy.

—Connie Aitcheson

BEHIND THE SCENES

Txai Resort

The rain forest meets Riviera-like luxury (sans the congestion) in this remote Brazilian Shangri-la by the sea

ROOMS: 40 BUNGALOWS PRICES: $398–$1,000
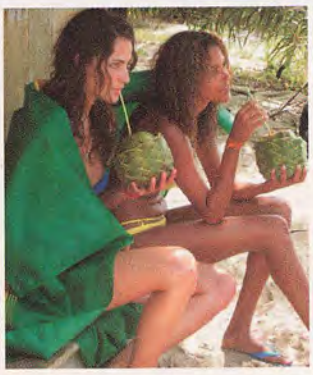
LOCAL KNOWLEDGE: REQUEST ONE OF THE BUNGALOWS SET HIGHER IN THE HILLS; THE VIEWS ARE WORTH THE EXTRA WALK TO THE BEACH
CONTACT: TXAI.COM



Like Fernanda and Ana Paula (above, right), the author drank it all in, from the rain-forest setting of his bungalow, which was located only yards from brilliant reflecting pools to the surfer-filled South Atlantic.

Hemmed in by lush Brazilian rain forest and sandy white beach, Txai Resort is so idyllic as to make the Girl from Ipanema reconsider her choice of hangout. Sure, Txai (pronounced Chigh) is flush with 40 beautifully minimalist bungalows, a full-service spa, an array of pools and a chef who could hold his own in any four-star kitchen in the world. But this eco-resort's ultimate amenity is the natural beauty. As one employee explained, "Deus é nosso jardineiro." God is our gardener.

Unlike many tropical resorts, Txai does nothing to hide or downplay the indigenous culture. Its name derived from the Indian language of Kaxinawa and is translated roughly as "the other half of me," Txai is not merely in the state of Bahia but of Bahia, and regional touches inform the experience of staying there. Instead of water aerobics or elliptical machines, guests can get a cardio workout doing capoeira, an acrobatic "fight-dance" in which partners exchange mock blows. The West African–influenced Bahian cuisine—for instance, moqueca, an outrageously tasty seafood stew flavored with coconut milk—is like nothing most Americans have ever sampled.

A stay at Txai, located some 320 miles south of Salvador, entails a sort of sensory assault. From the iridescence of the geckos to the vivid red orchids, the place is alive with colors you won't find in any Crayola box. But the ultimate jolt to the system is auditory: the crashing South Atlantic waves and tropes of the birds form a background soundtrack. The adventurous can hike in the rain forest, negotiate the rocky falls of the Tijuipe River or surf the South Atlantic.

When Txai was conceived and built earlier this decade, it triggered the familiar tug of war between commerce and ecology, a battle that tends to be especially pitched in Bahia, where much of the citizenry cares more about surf breaks than tax breaks. Now that the resort is up and running, it's hard to imagine Txai treading any more lightly on the environment. No one paved paradise much less put up a parking lot. They just, as noninvasively as possible, opened it to a few fortunate visitors. —L. Jon Wertheim

For guests, there are sights more dazzling than even an impromptu lounge act by Billy Joel. To wit: the apparition of the mermaidlike Veronica in the lobby fountain.

Four Seasons Maui

A no-amenity-overlooked policy adds to the Pacific-perfumed pleasure of this paradise-within-paradise

ROOMS: 380 PRICE: $425-$1,090
LOCAL KNOWLEDGE: HAWAII'S ONLY MOBIL FIVE-STAR RESORT; ASK FOR THE OCEAN-VIEW PRIME ROOMS
CONTACT: FOURSEASONS.COM/MAUI

The piano player in the lobby lounge at the Four Seasons Maui sounded awfully good, though it was hard to devote full attention to him. There were rum drinks with fresh fruit, tasty snacks from the pupu menu, a pleasant midnight breeze off the Pacific and a review of that day's 18 holes at the resort's exquisite Emerald Course. A few minutes later, at the end of a song, a burst of wild applause interrupted our conversation.

"I just figured out why he sounded so good," I said to my companions. "That was Billy Joel."

Indeed, the Piano Man himself, a guest at the hotel, had been coaxed into hitting the 88s for a few minutes, a performance that a few days hence, during his gig in Maui, would cost a nice chunk of change to enjoy. The next day Joel wandered over to the waterfall pool, where that day's swimsuit shot was being held, and invited everyone to the concert. He is, after all, a swimsuit vet, having once been married to three-time SI cover girl Christie Brinkley.

"Pretty nice here," said Joel, of the Four Seasons Maui.

The Piano Man nailed it. Set on 15 oceanfront acres in Wailea, the open-air, 380-room resort affords the opportunity to do nothing except stare at the Pacific from a poolside cabana or work up a sweat in any of the varied hotel-coordinated activities, from Pilates classes to rowing in the outrigger canoe program, as my wife and I arose at seven one morning to do. After learning Hawaiian commands (Ho'omaukaukau signals the start of a race) from our outrigger expert, we got the canoe going at a good clip and cruised right by a huge ocean turtle. Some of the lucky canoeists following spotted a few migrating whales.

Most of the extras, including the outrigger row, the exercise classes and the freeze pops (try the kiwi) passed around at the pool, are complementary. "Our philosophy is to charge a little more on the room rate but not to nickel-and-dime the customer when he's here," says Mark Simon, the resort's director of marketing. The nightly music in the lounge is free too, though, as Simon says, "we can't guarantee Billy Joel every night."

DAVID E. KLUTHO

Treating Bipolar Disorder Takes Understanding:

You've been up and down with mood swings. You want to move forward. Maybe ABILIFY can help:

- Control your symptoms of bipolar mania
- Stabilize your mood
- Reduce your risk of manic relapse

Most patients taking ABILIFY did not gain weight or feel drowsy.*
(See most common side effects listed below)

ABILIFY is used to treat manic or mixed episodes in adults with Bipolar I Disorder and maintain efficacy in patients whose symptoms have been controlled on ABILIFY for 6 weeks.

How ABILIFY is thought to work:

ABILIFY may work by adjusting dopamine activity, instead of completely blocking it and by adjusting serotonin activity. However, the exact way any medicine for bipolar disorder works is unknown.

Ask your healthcare professional if once-a-day ABILIFY is right for you.

ABILIFY®
(aripiprazole)
5, 10, 15, 20, 30 mg Tablets

Individual results may vary

www.abilify.com/bipolardisorder

*On average, in short-term trials, patients reported: meaningful weight gain, ABILIFY 3%, placebo 2%; drowsiness, ABILIFY 12%, placebo 8%.

For The Road Ahead

What important information about ABILIFY do I need to know?
Elderly patients diagnosed with psychosis as a result of dementia (for example, an inability to perform daily activities as a result of increased memory loss), and who are treated with atypical antipsychotic medicines including ABILIFY, are at an increased risk of death when compared to patients who are treated with a placebo (sugar pill). ABILIFY is not approved for the treatment of patients with dementia-related psychosis.

Serious side effects can occur with any antipsychotic medicine, including ABILIFY. Tell your doctor or healthcare professional right away if you have or develop any conditions or side effects, such as:

- Very high fever, rigid muscles, shaking, confusion, sweating, or increased heart rate and blood pressure may be signs of neuroleptic malignant syndrome (NMS), which is rare but potentially fatal
- Abnormal or uncontrollable facial movements may be signs of tardive dyskinesia (TD), which may be permanent
- If you are elderly, an increased risk of stroke or ministroke has been reported in clinical trials for elderly patients with dementia
- If you have diabetes, risk factors for, or symptoms of diabetes, increases in blood sugar levels have been reported with medicines like ABILIFY. In some cases these were serious and resulted in coma or death
- If you have lightheadedness, seizures, trouble swallowing, or suicidal thoughts

It's important to tell your healthcare professional about all the medicines you're taking, since there are some risks for drug interactions with ABILIFY.

You should avoid alcohol while taking ABILIFY.

Do not drive or operate heavy machinery until you know how ABILIFY affects you.

What are the most common side effects of ABILIFY?
Common side effects include: constipation, an inner sense of restlessness or need to move (akathisia), headache, nausea, upset stomach, vomiting, agitation, anxiety, insomnia, sleepiness, lightheadedness, and tremor.

If you or someone you know needs help paying for medicine, call 1-888-4PPA-NOW (1-888-477-2669). Or go to www.pparx.org | Partnership for Prescription Assistance

Name
ABILIFY® (a-BIL-ĭ-fī) (aripiprazole) (air-ĭ-PIP-ra-zall)

What is ABILIFY?
ABILIFY is a prescription medicine used to treat patients with an acute manic or mixed episode associated with Bipolar I Disorder and for maintaining efficacy in these patients who have been stabilized and then maintained for at least six weeks.

What is Bipolar I Disorder?
Bipolar I Disorder is an illness with symptoms thought to be caused by an imbalance of brain chemicals. People who have Bipolar I Disorder tend to experience extreme mood swings, along with other specific symptoms and behaviors. These mood swings, or "episodes," can take three forms: manic, depressive, or mixed episodes. Common symptoms of a manic episode are: feeling extremely happy, being very irritable and anxious, talking too fast and too much, and having more energy and needing less sleep than usual. Common symptoms of a depressive episode include: feelings of overwhelming sadness or emptiness, low energy, a loss of interest in things, trouble concentrating, changes in sleep or appetite, and thoughts of dying or suicide. A mixed episode includes symptoms that are both manic and depressive.

Who should not take ABILIFY?
People who are allergic to ABILIFY or to any substance that is in it. Please talk with your doctor or healthcare professional.

What important information should I know about ABILIFY?
Elderly patients, diagnosed with psychosis as a result of dementia (for example, an inability to perform daily activities as a result of increased memory loss), and who are treated with atypical antipsychotic medicines including ABILIFY, are at an increased risk of death when compared to patients who are treated with a placebo (sugar pill). ABILIFY is not approved for the treatment of patients with dementia-related psychosis.

Serious side effects can occur with any antipsychotic medicine, including ABILIFY. Tell your doctor or healthcare professional right away if you have any conditions or side effects, including the following:

Neuroleptic malignant syndrome (NMS): Very high fever, rigid muscles, shaking, confusion, sweating, or increased heart rate and blood pressure may be signs of NMS, a rare but serious side effect that could be fatal.

Tardive dyskinesia (TD): Abnormal or uncontrollable facial movements may be signs of a serious condition known as TD, which may be permanent.

Elderly patients with dementia: An increased risk of stroke and ministroke has been reported in a clinical study of elderly patients with dementia (for example, increased memory loss and inability to perform daily activities). ABILIFY is not approved for treating patients with dementia.

Diabetes: Patients with diabetes and those having risk factors for diabetes (for example, obesity, family history of diabetes), as well as those with symptoms such as unexpected increases in thirst, urination, or hunger should have their blood sugar levels checked before and during treatment. Increases in blood sugar levels (hyperglycemia), in some cases serious and associated with coma or death, have been reported in patients taking medicines like ABILIFY.

Orthostatic hypotension: Lightheadedness or faintness caused by a sudden change in heart rate and blood pressure when rising too quickly from a sitting or lying position (orthostatic hypotension) has been reported with ABILIFY.

Dysphagia: Medicines like ABILIFY have been associated with swallowing problems (dysphagia). If you had or have swallowing problems, you should tell your doctor or healthcare professional.

Suicidal thoughts: If you have suicidal thoughts, you should tell your doctor or healthcare professional right away.

What should I tell my doctor or healthcare professional before I start taking ABILIFY (aripiprazole)?
Information about your overall health, and any medical problems you may have, such as:
- Whether you're taking any other prescription or nonprescription (over-the-counter) medicines
- Whether you're pregnant, plan to become pregnant, or are breast-feeding
- If you or anyone in your family has had seizures
- If you or anyone in your family has had high blood sugar or diabetes

What should I avoid when taking ABILIFY?
- Avoid overheating and dehydration
- Avoid driving or operating hazardous machinery until you know how ABILIFY affects you
- Avoid drinking alcohol
- Avoid breast-feeding an infant

What are the common side effects of ABILIFY?
Common side effects include: constipation, an inner sense of restlessness or need to move (akathisia), headache, nausea, upset stomach, vomiting, agitation, anxiety, trouble sleeping (insomnia), sleepiness, lightheadedness, and tremor.

What percentage of people stopped taking ABILIFY due to side effects?
In clinical trials, the percentage of people who discontinued taking ABILIFY due to side effects was similar for patients treated with ABILIFY (11%) and for patients treated with sugar pill (9%).

Can I safely take ABILIFY while I'm taking other medications?
ABILIFY can be taken with most drugs; however, taking ABILIFY with some medicines may require your doctor or healthcare professional to adjust the dosage of ABILIFY.

These medicines* include:
- ketoconazole (NIZORAL®)
- quinidine (QUINIDEX®)
- fluoxetine (PROZAC®)
- paroxetine (PAXIL®)
- carbamazepine (TEGRETOL®)

It is important to tell your doctor or healthcare professional about all the medicines you're taking, just to be sure.

General Information:
- ABILIFY is usually taken once a day, with or without food
- ABILIFY should be kept out of the reach of children and pets
- Store ABILIFY Tablets and Oral Solution at room temperature
- For patients who must limit their sugar intake, be aware that ABILIFY Oral Solution contains sugar
- If you have additional questions, talk to your doctor or healthcare professional

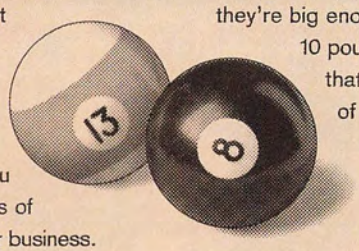
Pocket pool? Hell, you could play pocket track and field.

We'd be willing to venture that you're probably wearing pants right now. And those pants probably have a couple of pockets in front. See there? You've already got a lot in common with this ad. So you might as well just keep reading. Now then, what you do in those pockets of yours is none of our business. But unless they're attached to a pair of Haggar® pants, you might be limiting your possibilities. See, Haggar pockets are made different.* Way different. How? First off, they're big enough to hold 10 pounds of stuff. Try that with another pair of pants and see what happens. We also make Haggar pockets unrippable. If you're the kind of fella who puts things in his pockets he doesn't want to lose, an unrippable pocket might just come in handy. Oh, and another thing. We go ahead and round the corners so anything from a set of keys to a radiator cap won't get stuck down there. Then we sew them up strong with our famous Unbustable Seams and embroider on a "Q." What's the Q mean? It means those pants your pockets are part of are guaranteed by Haggar, Gentlemen's Supply Company,™ for as long as you live. To enjoy however you see fit.



QUALITY FOR LIFE™ Q GUARANTEED AS LONG AS YOU LIVE

*Applies to Haggar® Q clothing sold under the Quality For Life™ label. By "fit" we mean your entire life. Q Guarantee details are available on haggar.com. Thanks for reading this. © 2008 Haggar Clothing Co.

From the makers of the #1 driver in customer satisfaction* comes the next great club. The new King Cobra Speed LD Driver. The LD stands for Limit Dimensions, which means we stretched the clubhead to the edge of USGA regulations. Its design includes a fast-back crown, deep dimples and Limit Dimensions technology, all of which push the CG lower and further back – for an extremely high MOI (Moment of Inertia). And with the largest face in golf, the LD is amazingly hot and forgiving across 9 Hotter Points. What's more amazing is that this was all done while keeping the clubhead looking like an actual clubhead. It's a whole lot of technology. For a whole lot of distance. Visit www.cobragolf.com.

BEHIND THE SCENES

White Stallion Ranch

Rather than being saddled with Yesica or Brooklyn, the ranch's big draw wound up with the city-slicker author. That still beat its last gig

ROOMS: 45 PRICE: $140-$476
LOCAL KNOWLEDGE: A FAVE SET FOR HOLLYWOOD ("CONFESSIONS OF A DANGEROUS MIND" WAS FILMED HERE)
CONTACT: WSRANCH.COM

Dude, ranch. An honor-system bar to horse around in and the endless Sonoran Desert provided an Old West flavor, while the SI crew brought a little of Brooklyn (lower right, in bikini) to the house north of Tucson.

MY HORSE IS ON work release. Six years ago the U.S. Border Patrol confiscated Cowboy after he was caught carrying weed across the Mexican border into southern Arizona. After a short furlough with the Arizona Department of Agriculture, he was eventually sold at auction for $1,250, and now Cowboy, presumably reformed, works at the White Stallion Ranch just north of Tucson, helping city slickers learn the basics of horsemanship. I had never ridden a horse before arriving at this ranch amid the foothills of the Tucson Mountains, and I figured that my dark-brown gelding would soon be wishing he were back on the lam. Or at least had Yesica on his back.

Cowboy and I got along well, however, with the help of Carol Bachmann, the ranch's head wrangler. "Cowboy's a good horse for you because he picks up on the skill level of the rider," Carol told me. "And he's very appreciative to be here because he knows what it's like to be on the other side."

It is indeed fun to be a cowboy, even for only 72 sun-baked hours. The day moseys along quite nicely at White Stallion, thanks to the unfailingly accommodating True family, which has operated the ranch since 1965. What started out as a cattle ranch has been expanded into a dude ranch that combines old-fashioned hospitality (three squares a day and an honor-system bar) and modern amenities (a heated pool and wireless Internet access in every room). The biggest draw, of course, is its 130 horses. Guests saddle up daily for slow, fast and mountain rides on terrain featuring prickly pear cacti, Yao Ming–sized saguaros and sweeping vistas of Safford and Panther peaks.

The SI crew quickly felt at home (especially photographer Pamela Hanson, who proudly wore a T-shirt that read SAVE A HORSE. RIDE A COWBOY), even competing in a team cattle-penning event. Nights featured Russell True, with the weathered wisdom of a cowboy and the lean build and laid-back manner to match, telling tales about the history of the ranch. His simple but sage advice about riding: Trust the horse. Even one with a shady past. —Richard Deitsch

Twenty bucks gets you admission and a map of the museum at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in Cleveland. Only someone special gains access to exhibits like these. Enter Anne V. The kind folks at the Hall pulled up the velvet ropes for Anne—and why not? The Russian-born model exudes rock-and-roll sexiness, which you already know if you saw her in Alanis Morissette's 2004 video for Out Is Through. So what does a self-professed music addict ("People always say I should be a drummer," she says) do when granted carte blanche at the Canton for Clapton and Costello? She easily slips into the role of world's hottest V-jay. Anne even banged around on the Sex Pistols' drums. Alas, she admits, "I was faking it. Don't tell anyone."

LIFE OF REILLY
BY RICK REILLY

Now I've Got Your Attention

SCARLETT JOHANSSON'S SAT scores. French deodorant. The safety rating of a Ferrari Testarossa.

Some things just don't matter.

Like the back page of the Swimsuit Issue. People get the magazine, savor the pictures, get to the last page, see (ugh) words—and go back the way they came. The headline might as well read, BEGIN FLIPPING BACKWARD. I've written grocery lists that get better readership. One year I wrote the column in German, and six people noticed.

Even my best friends don't read it. "Really?" my friend Skybox said to me last year. "You write in the Swimsuit Issue?"

"Yes, you mollusk. Every year for the last seven years."

"Guess I missed it."

This is a man who notices when Petra Nemcova has a new mole, but the column he misses?

Not this year. This year, I had a plan. You're looking at it.

Let's see you ignore this, beeyotch.

I could write anything here, and you'd read it.

The square root of 101,378.56 is 318.4.

Moose meat is good with ketchup.

My grandfather had a goiter. See? You're still reading.

My only complaints are 1) I didn't get to do the typesetting and 2) we couldn't get a model named Paige. Then you could've literally turned to the back Paige. Instead we found Brooklyn Decker. Sue me.

She makes history here, of course. Sportswriters have written their columns on BlackBerries, napkins and men's room stall doors, but never before across a woman's nude body.

Can't wait to hear my buddies this year. They'll relish every conjunction, linger over the dangling participles, sigh at my conclusion. And I know exactly what they'll say: "Does it come in Braille?" □

Now there's a whole new way to snack. McDonald's® Honey Mustard Snack Wrap. Tender, all-white premium chicken breast meat, drizzled in a sweet and sassy Honey Mustard sauce. Good luck trying to make up your mind between grilled or crispy.

i'm lovin' it®

It's like asking you to choose between a french cut one-piece or a bikini.

☐ Crispy

☐ Grilled
